

I Know What I'm Getting Into

Verse 1

I see you sitting at the corner table there
Surrounded by a bunch that friends that don't compare
And with a smile that could kill a bird in flight
You must've turned away a hundred guys tonight

Around the room you're getting looks from everyone
You're looking back like "Thanks for playing, son"
There ain't a girl in here that quite compares to you
And by the looks of it you seem to know it too

Chorus

But I have eyes and I see what you do
And I have ears and I know what people say about you
And I know what I'm getting into

Verse 2

They all say that you're inaccessible
A lost cause, that you're unimpressible
Then people say I should walk away a man
Or die trying, but I think I understand

See I can see you have to have a strong defense
Or suffer fools, and pay the consequence
But do you really want to spend eternity
All alone and never know someone like me?

Chorus

Cause I have eyes and I see what you do
And I have ears and I know what people say about you
Yeah I know what I'm getting into
Oh I know what I'm getting into

[Solo]

Chorus

I have eyes and I see what you do
And I have ears and I know what people say about you
Yeah I know what I'm getting into
Oh yeah I know what I'm getting into
Yeah I know what I'm getting into
